

Donne & Cavalli Sponsors Dressage Champions At Equestrian Estates

Seven lucky High Score Champions at the recent Dressage at Equestrian Estates Show in Loxahatchee, Florida received beautiful gift baskets from Donne & Cavalli as their prizes. "The baskets are part of our commitment to giveback to the equestrian community that has made our skincare line so popular," said Master Esthetician and company President, Donna Mastrianni. "And these winning riders were especially impressive, as all the high score winner's had scores over 70%.

The Donne and Cavalli High Score winners would qualify for a who's who list of dressage and included Grand Prix High Score winner, Ashley Holzer on Gambol with a 70.833%, Intermediare-I winner, Olympic medalist, Michele Gibson on Lex Barker with a 72.417%, Fourth Level winner, Lauren Sammis on Sagacious with a 70.698%, Third Level winner, Courtney King on Roby VII with a 72.667%, Second Level winner, Jan Brons on Up To Date with a 72.973%, First Level winner, Betsy Steiner on Titaan with a 73.611% and First Level winner, Alison Sader Larson on Walbby LHF with a 75.909%.

Donne and Cavalli (which is Italian for woman and horses), which produces high quality botanical skin care products for equestrian athletes and their popular Soothing Salve for horse and rider, plans to participate in the entire Dressage Derby Series in 2007. "The Dressage Derby series shows are beautifully run and attract top judges and competitors-it's the perfect place to showcase our products," said Mastrianni. Mastrianni, who is also an equestrian, developed her skin care line with essential oils that were soothing and appealing to horses. The products quickly became popular with equestrians, who claimed that their horses liked the smell of the products on their skin.

The Dressage Derby at Equestrian Estates is one of more than a dozen equestrian events that Donne and Cavalli has supported in an effort to give back to the equestrian community. The company has made product donations to the Equus Foundation's Fete Cheval, Lendon Gray's Dressage for Kids Festival, the Palm Beach Cancer Society's Demin and Pearls fundraiser at Two Swans Farm, the Fredrica Academy's People, Places & Pets auction and the upcoming Moon Dance Equestrian Gala with Debbie McDonald to support the Three Gaits Therapeutic Horsemanship Program, among others.

"We are a small growing company and we are committed to getting equestrians to take care of themselves -as well as they take care their horses," says Mastrianni smiling. "We do as much as we can to support our equestrian clientele."
